

7 steps to get him hooked

Men are visual creatures first so make sure to look your best for the situation at hand.

Use your best assets: your charm, your eyes, and your friendly smile to get his attention.

Keep him guessing by being the queen of push and pull, and adding just a touch of mystery to keep him curious and wanting more.

Be comfortable in your sensuality and demonstrate by being slightly tactile and allowing yourself to stand just a bit closer than comfortable, creating that confusing light tension.

Show your self-confidence in the way you enter a room, the way you carry yourself, and the way you interact with him, while remaining feminine and keeping to your boundaries and standards.

Demonstrate your passion and interest by listening with interest and allowing yourself to show your positive excitement for whatever drives you.

Leave him wanting by leaving him with something to look forward to: create that curiosity to know you better and the promise of more to come by establishing commonality.